How To Make A Polymer Clay Trinket Tray

1

Take 20g of white clay, 10g of pink clay, and 5g of purple clay. Roll each colour into string-like strips.

2

Twist the strips together and roll them into a ball. To create a marbled effect, press, twist and warp the clay with your fingers until your desired pattern is achieved.

3

Roll the clay into a ball with your hands, then use a roller to roll it into a flat circle. Approx. 5mm thick.

4

Gently mould the clay into a trinket tray shape and pinch the edges up to create a lip.

5

Preheat the oven to 140°Celsius for 10 minutes. Place the trinket tray on an oven tray lined with baking paper. Bake for 15 minutes. Baking time may vary depending on the clay thickness and oven. Carefully remove from the oven using an oven mitt and allow to cool before touching.

6

Use the gold marker to add a gold rim around the edge of the tray and allow to dry for a few minutes.

7

The trinket tray is complete.
