Game Rules

1. To set up the game, choose an area to play that is flat and free of any objects. Allow approximately 50cm distance between the two wooden stakes.
2. This game is suitable for 2 players to play.
3. To begin the game, both players are to stand approximately 3.0m distance from each other and the stakes.
4. Each round, a player will take turns to roll a wooden roller, and attempt to pass through the space between the two wooden stakes.
5. Points are scored for each player of a round.
 - Pass through the space between the two wooden stakes and tip over - point is the number on the upside.
 - Pass through the space between the two wooden stakes and do not tip over - 1point.
 - No points is scored if a wooden roller hits wooden stake or fails to pass through the space between the two wooden stakes.
6. The player with the 21 scores first wins the game.
7. If one player reaches 21 scores first, the another player is entitled to take their final turn before the game is over.
8. If the game ends in a tie, players can either play one more round or they can set a new points target such as 25 points.
9. Determine who goes first by having players roll a wooden roller to score. The highest points scored on one turn will dictate who begins the game.
